(Samuel):

Do you want to hear the story of how I created my very own vegetable garden? My science class went on a field trip to a community garden in the middle of the city. It had never occurred to me that you could grow a garden in such a small space. I learned that even people who live in small apartments, like I do, can grow their own vegetables!

At the end of the field trip, we each received small packages of seeds that we could plant at home and an informational booklet that explained how to grow the vegetables.

When I arrived home that afternoon, I spoke with my parents about growing our own vegetable garden, and they gave me permission to start planting. We began by planting tomato seeds in a pot. The booklet said that tomatoes need light to grow, so I placed the pot on the balcony. Spinach needs space to grow comfortably, so we planted those seeds in a large pot. Next we planted tropical pumpkin. The booklet explained that tropical pumpkins can grow really fast, so they need to be cut promptly. The booklet also explained that peppers would grow better if planted in the spring, so we waited until springtime to plant those seeds.

When my dad is cooking, he sometimes looks at what we have growing in our vegetable garden and takes whichever vegetable he needs. Taking care of my garden has become my favorite pastime.
